For all targets give location and effect of hits, and identify by numbers above. Use additional sheets if necessary)

- (1) Six planes strafed at Yachimata.
- (2) Ten planes were strafed at Miyakawa. The bomb hits close to the 4-engine planes (closely resembling a B-24 according to photos) may have also damaged this plane. Photo interpretation reports by both the BATAAN and TG 38.3 indicated that this plane had been damaged.

(Note:Commander Task Force 38's airfield Status Report for 10 July 1945,based on photographs taken that day, indicated six nonoperational planes at Yachima ta and 19 at Miyakawa.

(p)Were Photographs Taken? Yes. Photographs of Damage, Whon Taken, Should Be Attached By Staple.

Selected photos attached to JicPoa copy of this ACA-1 report.

The second BATAAN sweep of the day was also in conjunction with RANDOLPH planes. The first attack was on Yachimata Airfield made from northwest to southeast, with BATA AN planes concentrating on three aircraft at the northeeast edges of the airfields and four on the east side. Possible damage to two of these parked aircraft from bomb drops cou ld not be assessed.All six enemy planes were strafed.No AA

After regaining altitudes BATAAN and RANDOLPH planes a ttacked Miyakawa airfield with VF-47 planes concentrating on parked aircraft at the southeastern corner of the field. Planes in revetments, just off the field at this corner were also strafed. Three bombs were dropped and 20 rockets were fired at aircraft in this area. Approximately 10 plenes were believed damaged during this attack. A large four engine plane, closely resembling a B-24, was strafed. Bombs and rockets exploded close by, so that it is presumed to have been damage d. No planes burned.

Meager medium and light anti-aircraft fire was observed. No airborne enemy aircraft were encountered.
